SOLACE FOR THE GRIEVING

Really Beautiful Custom That Exists Among Arabs East of the Jordan.

"Arabs east of the Jordan have a custom which shows a kindly feeling one toward another," writes a traveler. "If a man's horse dies (next to his eldest son, his best companion) his neighbor will bring in another horse and put it in the stall of the dead one and allow it to remain seven days, thinking in some measure to make up for the loss of the dead animal. The women also do something similar when a baby dies. A relation or friend will give the bereaved mother her own baby to nurse and care for during seven days; in that time the parent is supposed to become reconciled to her loss."

"Memory calls up a touching incident that occurred in our domestic life in Moab. Soon after our advent into that land my wife had the misfortune to lose a little one. It soon became known and the women were very grieved about it. A day or two after a young chief that had always been kindly disposed toward us presented himself at our door."

"I asked him in, he entered, and from under his cloak brought a tiny white lamb. He put it into my wife's arms, saying, 'I'm sorry for your loss, and if I had a baby would have lent it to you to care for until you had got over your grief; I had this lamb, so have brought it for you to look after, feed and care for.'"

WEDDED DESPITE INJURIES.

A marriage was performed the other day in Pittsburgh, Pa., which testifies to the powers of endurance of both bride and bridegroom. The couple, who are Poles, were united in a Polish church, standing before the altar with the upper part of their bodies swathed in bandages because of burns received just before they were to start for church, when the bride's veil caught fire from an open grate, igniting her clothing and that of the bridesmaid, who also was seriously burned. In rescuing the women the man was painfully injured. The ceremony had to be delayed, while the sufferers were attended to by a physician. The bridal party then proceeded to the church leaving the prospective bridesmaid writhing in pain.

ROCK DEMOLISHED CHURCH.

As the cure was saying mass in the Church of Les Cabannes, in the department of Ariège, southern France, the other day, a rock overhanging the building, and known as the Rocher de la Vierge, fell without warning, and crashed through the roof, causing the walls to collapse. The priest was killed at the moment of the Elevation of the Host, and the chorister who was assisting had a leg broken, besides sustaining other injuries. After the rock fell a hot sulphur spring issued with considerable force from the ground and the gradual action of the water behind the rock is supposed to have been the cause of the accident.

FIND LEAD ORE IN SCOTLAND.

A rich seam of sulphide of lead has been discovered in the north of Scotland, at Spittal, in Caithness. Several workmen are already employed at the quarry following up the seam, and the ore, which is in abundance, is of good quality. Qualified prospectors also state that large and paying quantities of lead lie under the clay of Wick Harbor and along the great "Fault," which continues on to Watten quite undisturbed.

CONVICT HAS FERTILE BRAIN

Inventions of Real Worth the Work of Prisoner in Pennsylvania Penitentiary.

There was exhibited in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia a few days ago, six mechanical devices which one of the inmates of the institution has invented. The man, John Edwards, who is serving a long term for robbery, displayed so much ingenuity and skill in his work that the warden furnished him with money and gave him permission to spend his time in the perfection of his inventions.

One of the devices is a burglar alarm and doorbell. Another which the inventor calls an "internal combustion turbine," has aroused the curiosity of prominent mechanical engineers. It is operated by means of gravity and hydrostatic pressure. A "noiseless railroad crossing system" is another invention, the model of which he exhibited. He has applied for patents in Washington.

Edwards has invented an "ellipsograph," to be used by draftsmen and architects in drawing ellipses. He showed an improvement in padlocks, where the tensile strength of the lock is equal to the strength of six other ordinary locks. He has perfected an advertising device which consists of pieces of wood which can be applied to almost any use, and upon which pictures have been drawn. Among the uses to which the broad boards can be put is in the construction of the backs of chairs.

TOWERED OVER SHIP'S MASTS

Commanders of Vessels Supply New Information as to Height of Atlantic Waves.

It is very doubtful if the log of any naval vessel of the world contains records equal to those of the Roe. Lieut. Commander C. H. Woodward has stated that he never expected to bring his craft through the immense waves. The indicator on the bridge, which was at times the only part of the vessel out of water, showed that the little craft rolled 90 degrees, being at times clear over on her beam ends.

Just at the time when the commanders of the little squadron estimated that the gale was at its height and blowing practically 90 miles an hour the Roe's steering gear gave way and she dropped into the trough of the sea. This little vessel's masts are 52 feet high from the water line, says the Christian Herald, and although it has been stated that the highest wave yet recorded upon the Atlantic ocean was not more than 30 feet in height, Commander Woodward's estimate that the waves of the recent storm overtopped his masts by several feet has been borne out by the officers not only of the smaller ships but even of the battleship Delaware.

Sacredness of the Cow in India.

The killing of animals is abhorrent to the Hindoo. You may see the pious Jain, who carries the doctrine of the preservation of life to an absurd extreme, moving about on the Esplanade or near trees and fields with a packet of flour and sugar, in search of ants and other insects, that he may feed them from his store. In towns and villages you will occasionally come across the sacred bull, who roams about at will, and helps himself to grain and other foodstuff placed in shops as he pleases. He is a symbol of divinity. None will molest him; everybody will hold him in reverence. But in the case of the bull the reverence is limited to the one who, so to speak, is born in purple.

As for the cow, the entire species is sacred, and to kill it is a cardinal sin. Whenever the pious Hindoo passes by a cow, he touches it with his hand and salutes it.

The Cure.

Miss Fay Templeton, at a supper at the Ritz-Carlton in New York given in honor of her return to the stage, praised the American business man.

"I have only one fault to find with him," she said. "He works too hard. Hence, of an evening, he is sometimes a little dull."

"But intelligent wives can soon cure their husbands of overworking. I know a wife—she and her good man are in Egypt now—who came down to dinner one night in a somber black robe."

"Her husband—a frightfully overworked millionaire—looked at her costume and exclaimed: 'Why on earth, my love, are you wearing a dress like that? It's positively half-mourning.'"

"Of course it's half-mourning," she replied. "When you come home from the office, don't you always complain that you're half dead?"

Perils of Sea Service.

The submarine branch of the navy has undoubtedly risks and dangers of its own, as the sad tale of previous disasters plainly shows; and when a catastrophe such as took place recently unhappily occurs it is of a nature to make a profound impression upon the public. But in relation to the number of submarines in commission, and to the constant exercise they undergo, the picked officers and men who serve in them do not incur a risk out of all proportion greater than their comrades in other branches. Danger and risk are no peculiar prerogative of the submarine, they form the very foundation of naval character, and are a pledge, in no small degree, of the security upon which as a nation we repose.—London Times.
